

JFCSE

Journal of Family and Consumer Sciences Education

October 12, 2020

Because of your connections to and support of family and consumer sciences (FCS) education, we encourage you to submit your research, conceptual papers, promising practices, and book reviews to the Journal of Family and Consumer Sciences Education (JFCSE). Guidelines for submission have been recently updated on the NATEFACS website.

In addition to any work you are currently focusing on, we are interested in publishing research and perspectives associated with FCS educators' responses to the pandemic, teacher recruitment, and application of the teacher education standards. It is our desire to use this journal to strengthen research and practice in FCS education.

Although the JFCSE has not published an issue in over a year, now that the editorial board has been fully staffed, we are excited to publish this issue. As the journal's guidelines indicate, future issues will be published as articles are submitted.

If you are unable to submit a document for publication at this time, we would welcome your involvement in the journal's publication process as a reviewer.

Thank you for your support of FCS and the JFCSE!

Sincerely,

Lorna Browne, PhD
JFCSE Editor
Howard County Public Schools

Cheryl A. Johnson, PhD
JFCSE Associate Editor
East Carolina University